Pianist kicks off series:
Pianist Jerome Rose will open the 1990-91 Faculty Artist Series with a free concert at 8 p.m. in Ko-backer Hall in the Moore Musical Center. The program will feature pieces by Beethoven, Mozart and Chopin.

School's in:
Prince William said a stiff-upper-lip farewell to his parents, Prince Charles and Princess Diana, and started boarding school Monday.
The 8-year-old prince, second in line to the English throne, went with his parents to the Ludgrove Preparatory School in Berkshire County, 36 miles southwest of London.
Surveillance equipment has been installed at strategic points around the school, which includes an indoor sports complex, a swimming pool and nine-hole golf course. Tuition is nearly $12,000 a year.

STATE

Condom sense:
A woman who gives condoms to college students as a way to encourage safe-sex practices made her pitch Monday to Miami University students as part of a campus AIDS education project.
Jane Scott, 56, of Columbus, gathered with about a dozen student coordinators of the project to give out "Three for Free" coupons to students walking by.
The coupons can be redeemed for three condoms and a packet of information about AIDS and other sexually transmitted diseases. They are redeemable through the university.
"National statistics tell us that 70 percent of young people have been sexually active by the time they are 19."

Voinovich leads:
Republican George Voinovich's lead over Democrat Anthony Celebrezze Jr. in a newspaper's gubernatorial poll is similar to the advantage that Gov. Richard Celeste showed in the paper's surveys in 1986.
The Aug. 30-Sept. 6 poll by The Columbus Dispatch showed Voinovich with a 13-point lead. Fifty-three percent of the participants favored Voinovich and 40 percent Celebrezze.
The Dispatch polled 1,581 randomly selected, registered voters. The standard margin of error in a completely scientific poll of comparable size is 2.2 percentage points in 95 of 100 cases, the Dispatch said.

City police call halt to BG bashes

Kegs confiscated, students arrested during parties at Frazee, East Merry

by Lori Miller and John Kohlstrand city staff

City police made it clear that a new era of law enforcement has arrived in Bowling Green after arresting more than 100 parties and confiscating 32 kegs of beer this weekend.
Large parties at the Field Manor and Frazee apartments on Frazee Avenue and the Merry Avenue apartments on East Merry Avenue were the largest source of arrests, but police made a large number of arrests at other city locations as well.
"We are going to take an initiative in enforcing these types of events from now on," said Captain Thomas Votava, assistant police chief. "The days of buying six kegs of beer ... and allowing anyone to drink who has a cup are over with."

"We are going to take an initiative in enforcing these types of events from now on. The days of buying six kegs of beer ... and allowing anyone to drink who has a cup are over with."

—Captain Thomas Votava, assistant police chief

University police added a handful of arrests and the Greenbriar security force made a number of arrests as well, according to Maurer.
Greater police response to this year's party stems from greater community concerns, Votava said.
"The responsible students on campus and the University community is fed up with the (irresponsibility) of a minority group of individuals," Votava said. "We're reflecting a community attitude."
Comparisons between last weekend and the East Merry Mania-Frazee Frenzy weekend of last spring show that city law enforcement has increased:

BG police weekend actions challenged

by Sandra J. Kowalksy city writer

Ward 1 City Councilman Jim Davidson has invited several students who believe they were treated unfairly by police during last weekend's block party events to speak during next Monday's city council meeting.
Davidson, who has been to every East Merry Avenue and Frazee Avenue block party, said he attends the parties since he lives two blocks away and he likes to check in to see how things are going.
He said he was very disturbed by police actions.
"Entering apartments without warrants is very disturbing to me," Davidson said.
Terri Hoppert, 522 E. Merry Ave., Apt. 26, was sitting on her porch Saturday night smoking a cigarette before police entered her apartment and gave her a ticket for disorderly conduct and disturbing the peace. She said she will attend the city council meeting Monday night.

Hoppert, 21, said a policeman approached her and asked for an ID. She said she was not drinking alcohol while she sat on the porch, however, there were cans of beer in the apartment.
The policeman asked where she lived and entered her apartment, where her roommates — all 21-years-old — were playing cards, she said.
The officer then asked for her roommates' IDs, she added, put them in his pocket and said her stereo was too loud. When Hoppert questioned the policeman's actions, she said he responded by saying, "If you say one more"

BG Greeks host yearly tub contest for charity

by Heather Felty
staff writer

Q: What do you get when you put a bathtub, an innertube and all the fraternities and sororities together?
A: The 16th annual bathtub races.
This past Saturday, Alpha Chi Omega sorority and Phi Kappa Psi fraternity sponsored the bathtub races to raise money to help fight multiple sclerosis and cystic fibrosis.
Money was raised through donations, raffle ticket sales, and a $15 entry fee, said Todd Fox, chair of the bathtub races.
"We raffled off dinners at Sam's, Tuxedo Junction and Chi-Chi's; we also raffled off prizes like CD's, tapes from Finder's and golf umbrellas," he said.
The bathtub races involve a team of four people whose goal is to row a bathtub on an innertube across Peregrine Pond and then proceed to throw an old bike tire over a pole.
After the first two people reach their goal they get out of the floating bathtub while the two other

Theta Chi fraternity members J.P. Patchett, left, and Geoff Knapp capsize their tub during a race in the sixteenth annual Greek Regatta Saturday afternoon in the pond between Harshman and Kreischer Quads. The proceeds of the $15 per team entry fee were donated to Cystic Fibrosis. According to Dawn Wilt of Alpha Chi, the event raised nearly $2,000.

Merchant's Fair to display BG wares

by J.J. Thompson
staff writer

Students who would like a free trip to Florida during Spring Break this year may want to stop by the BG Merchant's Fair today in the Lenhart Grand Ballroom.
The fair will have 75 Bowling Green businesses displaying and selling merchandise. There will also be four drawings (including the free trip to Florida), celebrity appearances and free goods for students.
The event is being sponsored by the Chamber of Commerce, the Downtown Business Association, the BG News and the University to introduce local business products and services to students, faculty and staff, said Jan Stubbs, University student publications advertising manager.
Although there have been merchant fairs before, Joan Gordon, Chamber of Commerce executive director, said they were never as large as this year's fair.
"District businesses had 11 or 12 merchants (at a fair) last year," she said, "but this is the first time we've had it on such a large scale."

Liberian President Doe dies from wound during fighting

MONROVIA, Liberia (AP) — President Samuel Doe was reported Monday to have died of a gunshot wound suffered in fighting with rebels who had captured him a day earlier.
On Sunday, breakaway rebel leader Prince Johnson named himself president until elections could be held. Shortly after Doe's capture, however, loyalists named a successor to the former Liberian leader.
And Liberia's main rebel group said Monday it would carry on fighting, dashing hopes for an early end to the 8½-month-old civil war that has left more than 5,000 civilians dead.
The National Patriotic Front led by Charles Taylor on Monday demanded withdrawal of the 3,000-strong West African force in Monrovia to quell the fighting, which has often been tribal.

Although fighters loyal to Johnson control Monrovia, Taylor's 10,000-strong army has overrun most of the rest of Liberia.
In Washington, the State Department said it had been told by reliable sources that Doe had died from a gunshot wound suffered in a shootout Sunday with rebels loyal to Johnson.
A State Department spokesman, who asked not to be identified, said U.S. officials considered the reports confirmation of the Liberian leader's death.
"We have been informed by various sources, including representatives of rebel forces, that President Doe died from a gunshot wound that he suffered in the shootout with Johnson's forces over the weekend," the spokesman said.

The British Broadcasting Corp. quoted witnesses who visited a Johnson camp near Monrovia as saying Doe's mutilated body was on display there.
The witnesses quoted by the BBC did not say how Doe had died. They said, however, they watched Johnson interrogating Doe about the disappearance of millions of dollars of state funds during his 10-year rule.
Gambian President Sir Dawda Jawara, current chairman of the Economic Community of West African States, said Monday, "Now that Doe has been toppled by Prince Johnson ... it might help the peace process in Liberia."
Johnson said Sunday he would run Liberia until an interim government can be installed.

Disabled denied equal education

The National Association for the Advancement of Colored People maintain the familiar adage that "a mind is a terrible thing to waste."

Although the phrase refers to the abhorrence of denying African Americans an education, this phrase is not actually race or color specific. It does not matter whether you're black, white, yellow or green — you should have access to knowledge.

Although economic barriers prevent far too many individuals from attending institutes of higher learning, even those who reach the upper echelon face discrimination.

Physically handicapped students — those with mobility impairments — do not have the opportunities most of their peers take for granted at this University.

Handicapped students have cited sidewalks in disrepair, doors they cannot open, buildings they cannot enter, access ramps that are dangerously "accessible" and bathroom facilities that are dangerous or embarrassing to use.

At the moment there are no plans to improve accessibility for handicapped students, according to University officials in capital planning. Capital planning is the University office responsible for acquiring appropriations from the state.

Every two years the state legislature appropriates funds for improvements. We were most recently granted funds in December and will not receive additional funds to improve or build until 1991.

Nevertheless, the University and Faculty Senate budget committees are already preparing recommendations for the next competitive request session.

Perhaps these committees should consider the people for whom they're working. All the people.

Before these committees sit down to hammer out requests, perhaps they each should sit down in a wheelchair and try to get around campus. Maybe they will discover how bad our sidewalks — which one University official called "hazardous and unsightly" — really are.

Try opening a non-automatic door while you're in that wheelchair ladies and gentlemen.

Later, after a long day on campus you may want to take a relaxing shower. Unfortunately, the budget committees will find few residence halls have adequate facilities for handicapped people. If the halls do have showers, you may realize the support bars are frighteningly out of reach. Most of the residence hall bathrooms have bathtubs in plain sight for handicapped students.

Officials have said that as each building on campus is renovated, it will be improved to meet current standards of accessibility. Sure, we would like progress now, but we must realize some things take time.

However, when the acquisition of a quality education is an issue, one should not be limited by physical barriers. Attaining a college degree is a pursuit of the mind, not the body. No one should be denied a college education because bureaucrats do not have their priorities in order.

Physical accessibility to campus buildings is a serious issue that has been too long on the back burner. Now is the time to make renovations that would enable handicapped students and faculty accessibility to all campus buildings.

Handicapped students do not want or need pity. They, like all people, only want an equal opportunity. And that opportunity should not be obstructed by something as simple as closed doors to education.

Nothing is forever in collegiate years

"The thing about college, honey, is that people come and go," my mother said as I was packing to come to Bowling Green for the first time.

"Yeah, yeah, Mom. Do you think I should take five or six more sweater crates? Maybe I should get some more laundry detergent, too..."

My mother thinks I'm a liberal because I don't want to listen to anybody.

Thing is, I should have listened to her then. It was one of the toughest things I've had to learn in college, and after three years here in the city of lights, it still always strikes me kind of strangely when I think of all the friends I've watched leave this place.

After my mother left me here that next morning — with a toilet

Dan the Mountain Man — did his life as a collegian in.

Matt spent our first two years here, but had some kind of trouble with getting classes in his major or something like that and transferred.

Fall always gives me wicked deja vu for those first few weeks in Bowling Green.

Lately I've been experiencing weird James Taylor sentimental feelings about all those friends who left — many of whom I would have no idea how to find today. Even if I could find them, I don't know what I have to say.

Some graduate or plan to transfer for months, and you're prepared for them to leave.

Others just leave one day and you're never too sure why. Some of them leave for break and never return.

If I had to leave I'd do it that way. I can't stand goodbyes — so much so that I just sort of disappear with as few as possible at the end of every year. When everybody comes back in the fall, they usually can't remember whether you said goodbye. It's easier that way.

The friends who have stayed in my life during the majority of my three years here are very few and treasured. It feels almost as if we're survivors of the come-and-go lifestyle of college.

Everything about life here is temporary. Students only live in the same place for a few months at a time. We have temporary addresses and temporary phones, temporary jobs and roommates and friends. Nothing lasts long here.

I guess that's what makes the friends I have kept for several years quite a precious commodity. Anywhere else in the world, three years wouldn't seem like a long time, but here, it's an eternity.

When I graduated from high school, a good friend of mine already in college told me the friends you make the first few weeks at school will be with you forever.

Three years later I find most of them are long gone from Bowling Green. People come and go from college. It's a fact of life.

bowl-sized dorm room full of too many sweater crates and a stranger for a roommate — I made my first college friends.

Those first friendships are fast ones. You're all freshmen, you're all scared, and you're not quite sure what to do with yourself.

One of the first good friends I found was my new college boyfriend, Matt. He and his three roommates became my first real college friends.

I spent the majority of my first semester here with Matt, Tim, Scott and Dan. Three years later, only Scott and I are still around.

Dan only lasted that first semester, and even that seemed a miracle in December. Dodging professors and R.A.'s and hiding from the police on other campuses on weekends made his collegiate career brief but entertaining.

Tim managed to stay until May. Too many drunken nights and girlfriends, combined with the unstudious influence of Dan —

Society favoring death over beer

There was a time when 18-year-old men and women could drink cheap, watered-down beer. There was a time when this University sponsored beer blasts in the quadrangles and dormitories. There was time when alcohol advertising wasn't aimed at the 17 to 21 year old population.

A catch-22 is taking place in this nation and it exploded this weekend at Merry Madness and Frazee Frenzy.

Let's put some things into perspective. Our government is sending over 200,000 troops into possible combat in the Middle East. A large percentage of these troops are under 21.

These "underage" troops are allowed to carry M-16 assault rifles. These "underage" troops are allowed to place themselves in lines of fire.

Possibly fatal lines of fire. But these "underage" troops, if they would have been at Merry Madness, would have been arrested for carrying a cup of beer.

And even if they were sipping a cold one in the privacy of their apartments, they might have been in danger of arrest from the overzealous, doughnut-fed cops of Bowling Green.

Seems like "underage" people can take a fatal belly-full of lead in defense of our nation, but God forbid if they fill those bellies with Old Milwaukee.

Talking to people who attended the blowout and who lived at the site of the twice-annual beer manner that it has, as a pagan festival since the time of Dionysus) the Bowling Green police arrived en masse, with handcuffs and tickets drawn.

Since the elevation of the state's drinking age a few years ago and the Draconian drug war that is raging in the nation, enforcement of these statutes has become a problem.

During prohibition, drinking flourished among the populace.

What do the lawmakers think the underage populace is going to do now?

Choose between Coca-Cola and Pepsi?

These statutes take the responsibility out of drinking and make underage consumption of alcohol a crime.

And I for one have never met a responsible criminal.

As for the enforcement of the statutes at Merry Madness and Frazee Frenzy, I heard stories of people being ticketed for possessing empty cups.

I heard stories of BG police swearing at the people they were sworn to protect.

I heard stories of undue force used in entering apartments and seizing kegs.

And they seized 32 kegs in all. At the time of this writing, BG police chief Galen Ash was not available for comment.

Maybe he is planning the next BG policeman's ball; after all he has 32 kegs of cold malt liquor to dispose of.

Minority faculty recruited

University's hiring efforts most successful in 15 years

by Jennifer Today
staff writer

University recruitment efforts to hire minority faculty members made more progress this fall than in the past 15 years.

Norma Stickler, assistant to the vice president of academic affairs, said nine African Americans, two Hispanics and three Asian/Pacific Islanders were hired this year, compared to only two African Americans last year.

The number of Hispanics remained constant, but there was a decrease in the Asian/Pacific Islanders group from five to three, she added.

This year's figures have not yet been termed "official," she said.

Last year's minority faculty included 12 African-Americans, six Hispanics and 34 Asian/Pacific Islanders, she said, comparing the figures to this year's 22 African Americans, five Hispanics and 42 Asian/Pacific Islanders.

The issue of minority hiring was addressed by University President Paul Olscamp in his opening day remarks.

"After a slump in the late 70s and early 80s minority hiring has improved, and the advances this year, using funds from the Minority Faculty Hiring Pool, have been impressive," Olscamp said.

Marshall Rose, affirmative action director, said the fund set aside for minority hiring has had a positive impact on the departments' ability to find eligible and qualified people.

Prior to the fund, regular and traditional means of hiring were not productive, he said.

According to data from the Academic Affairs Office, from fall 1982 to spring 1985, no minority hiring took place.

Previous years displayed figures ranging from one to a maximum of four minority hirings. This year's figures are considered a substantial increase for one year, Rose said.

Stickler said, regarding African Americans and Hispanics, three of the new employees are on a one-year appointment, seven are on a 10-year track and one has tenure.

Hiring took place in a variety of departments, she said. For example, one new minority faculty member was hired in the accounting department, while others are teaching courses in history and social work.

The increase in new minority faculty members is positive and provides for a wide diversity of staff, she said.

"The University desires an increase in both women and minorities," she said. "They serve as role models in the classroom and they are representative of a better cross section in society."

The number of women faculty also has increased this year with 30 new employees, she said.

Last year's women faculty numbers totaled 189, which compared to the total faculty staff of 734 for 1989-90 school year, she added.

The employment process is monitored by the Affirmative Action Office to make sure that each department is effective in meeting the University minority and diversity goals.

Rose said some departments have not hired any new minority faculty members and some are underrepresented in their number of women.

"We help these departments be more aggressive in these areas of hiring," he said.

Campus police use backup to quiet 400-person brawl

by Marvin Brown
staff writer

Several University students suffered injuries and one student was arrested after a Friday night dance erupted into a brawl that took 10 city and five University police as well as two Wood County Sheriff deputy's units to contain.

The fight, its cause undetermined, started around 2 a.m. during a fraternity dance in the Lenhart Grand Ballroom, according to a report by Assistant City Police Chief Thomas Votava.

The police received a complaint of 50 to 60 people fighting in the ballroom, the report indicated, and by the time the backup units arrived, the fight had escalated to more than 400 people.

Chairs were being thrown about and used as weapons which led to uncounted injuries, and a University student was arrested after striking an officer, the report said.

One officer was struck on the left bicep with a cane, and another who had come to his aid was hit on his left forearm, punched on the left side of his face, and suffered injury to his left knee, police said.

A person in the office of the Black Student Union, who would not be named, said the fight was rumored to have been caused by non-University students.

Vice President of Student Affairs Mary Edmonds called the event "absolutely deplorable."

"We are in the position of protecting our students," she said. "We will have to be stiffer on the number of non-BG students we let into our dances."

Dry dorms caused by overtaxed main

by J.J. Thompson
staff writer

Last Thursday, hundreds of residents went without water for almost 10 hours — University officials say the crisis was a freak occurrence.

According to Gardner McLean, public relations associate director, an unusual number of people were simultaneously drawing water from a line under Wooster Street that supplies Fraternity Row, Conklin, Harshman and Kreischer Quadrangles.

"It was a freak set of coincidences," McLean said.

About 7 that morning, the grounds crew filling Peregrine Pond, the cafeterias preparing breakfast and students taking showers contributed to the water pressure drop.

"We're serving the equivalent of a small town out there," Physical Plant director Carl Cogar said. "All those things added up to more demands than the (water) mains on the east end of campus could provide."

At first, Physical Plant workers believed the problem was caused by a water line break, McLean said, and immediately shut off water leading to the quadrangles.

The workers were unable to locate any problems, however, and Cogar said the University tapped into a nearby city main.

The tap with the city main was maintained until Monday, when the normal connection was re-established.

Although the extremity of the incident is considered unusual, the quadrangles did have low water-pressure problems last year for short periods of time, Cogar said.

Because of this, the University is making plans to ensure it does not happen again. A new water line connected at Wooster Street, leading directly to the quadrangles, is expected to be installed within the next few weeks, Cogar said.

Phone service raises skepticism

Counsel says Caller ID feature may discourage hotline callers

by Tara A. Rainson
staff writer

A telephone service proposed by Ohio Bell that will allow customers to screen the numbers of incoming calls before answering the phone has drawn criticism from the Ohio Consumers' Council.

Caller ID will display the phone numbers of incoming calls on a box installed next to the phone, according to James Dennis, manager of the Toledo office of Ohio Bell.

According to Stephen Ostrander, communications chief for the Office of the Consumers' Counsel, this service could discourage people calling suicide hotlines, battered wives in shelters who want to contact their houses, people calling the Internal Revenue Service for tax advice and informants phoning tips in to the police.

However, Dennis said its main feature is to deter threatening and obscene callers.

"We feel the privacy of the called party is as important as the privacy of the caller," Dennis said.

Ostrander said the program could reveal the phone numbers of consumers to businesses forming solicitation lists.

"Caller ID opens the door to a lot of abuse," Ostrander said.

"A lot of consumers, including myself, don't want their numbers revealed every time they call, especially to businesses," Ostrander said.

Unlisted phone numbers would also be revealed, he added.

Ohio Bell petitioned the Public Utilities Commission of Ohio in May for permission to offer Caller ID to customers but has not yet received clearance. The OCC instead proposes that Ohio Bell offer the Call Reject and Call Trace programs, he said.

Call Reject would allow customers to report specific numbers, from which they do not want to be contacted, to the phone company for permanent blocking.

Call Trace would permit the recording of phone numbers from which harassing calls are made for reports to the police.

The Caller ID program is currently in use in about 10 other states, and has been used in New Jersey for two years, Dennis said.

The number of obscene and threatening calls has been reduced greatly in New Jersey since the system was implemented, he said.

"People aren't going to call and harass you if they feel you (will) know their phone numbers." That's the big advantage to Caller ID," Dennis added.

However, Ostrander said Call Reject and Call Trace are being used in New Jersey along with Caller ID, and can be credited with part of the reduction in the number of harassing calls. Discouragement of obscene callers, the original purpose of the system, would not necessarily be accomplished because of the system's limitations, Ostrander said.

The numbers of calls made from phones in any area, in which the phone company does not possess the technology to offer Caller ID, would not be revealed.

The numbers of credit card calls, long distance calls and calls from public phones would not be revealed either, Ostrander said.

"A very determined harassing caller is not going to be discouraged," he said.

The Public Utilities Commission would probably accept Caller ID more readily if "blocking," in which people making phone calls can choose not to have their numbers revealed, were proposed as part of the program, Dennis said.

Ohio Bell thinks blocking defeats the purpose of the system, Dennis explained.

"It's like if you've got an apartment ... if someone comes and knocks on your door ... you don't have to open the door if you don't like the looks of the person standing out there," he said. A recent national poll conducted by Louis Harris and Associates concluded that 23 percent of those surveyed thought Caller ID should be sold without restrictions. Forty-eight percent said it should be permitted only with blocking, and 27 percent said it should be forbidden by law.

The program, if accepted by PUCO, would first be offered in the West Cleveland area and then in Columbus, Dennis said. Caller ID would probably be offered in the Toledo area sometime in the mid-90s, he said.

Caller ID would carry a monthly service charge of $6.50. The box that would actually display the numbers would need to be purchased from an independent vendor, and would probably retail for $50 to $60, Dennis said.

Run your own company at 26.

We're looking for a few good college students and graduates who can fill the shoes of a Marine Corps officer. That's a pretty tall order.

It means leading other Marines. Being responsible for their well being. But that's something no civilian job offers you at 26.

If you think you're a real company man, see your Marine Corps Officer Selection Officer for details.

members from their team jump in and do the same.

The sororities compete against fraternities while fraternities compete against other fraternities — finally the two winning teams receive trophies.

"This is the first philanthropy of fall and it is also the largest of the fall," said Steve LeMasters, president of Phi Kappa Psi.

The winners were a team consisting of Julie Lange, Julie Hebert, Julie Dygert and Desiree Summers from the Delta Zeta sorority and the team of Todd Rings, Rob Kacmarcik, Chris Montello and Scott Doeringer from the Phi Gamma Delta fraternity.

Alpha Gamma Delta sorority won the sportsmanship award for being the most spirited at the competition.

Delta Upsilon and Gamma Phi Beta raised the most money for the event. Ralph Schmitz (Delta Upsilon) and Valarie Ziadan (Gamma Phi Beta) won the titles of King and Queen of the bathtub races due to their organizations' efforts.

"District businesses had 11 or 12 merchants (at a fair) last year," she said, "but this is the first time we've had it on such a large scale."

To be an exhibitor, interested businesses have to be a member of the Chamber of Commerce or Downtown Business Association. During the fair, merchants will display information as well as sell goods.

Many will also have samples of food and drawings for food baskets, gift certificates and T-shirts.

Free food samples, key chains, pens and pencils will also be given away.

Local celebrities including Jerry Anderson from Channel 13 and Diane Scribner from radio station 93Q are scheduled to appear, Stubbs said.

Although it is not definite, she said given the response they have seen this year from merchants — and if student and faculty response is good — the sponsors may have another fair next year.

U.N. peace plan helps Cambodia

JAKARTA, Indonesia (AP) — Cambodia's Vietnamese-backed government and leaders of rebel factions agreed Monday to a U.N. peace plan that calls for power-sharing and free elections.

Cambodia Premier Hun Sen said a date for a cease-fire had not been worked out, but all sides appeared optimistic following two days of talks to end the 11-year-old civil war.

"We have not reached peace yet ... but we have the framework," said Son Sann, former Cambodian premier and leader of the Khmer People's National Liberation Front, part of the three-party guerrilla force.

Efforts to reach a peace accord since July 1988 had failed when the factions disagreed about power-sharing issues. Under the approved U.N. plan, each of the four factions would be represented in a governing council.

A joint statement said Hun Sen's government would get six seats on the so-called Supreme National Council. Six others seats would be shared by the resistance coalition. A 13th seat is reserved for Prince Norodom Sihanouk, leader of the rebel coalition.

The council is expected to make its first formal appearance Sept. 18 at the U.N. General Assembly seat, now held by the rebel coalition.

The council would cede much of its authority to the United Nations, which would administer the country until free elections. U.N. officials have said up to 10,000 troops and 10,000 civilian personnel could be sent to Cambodia to administer the peace plan and oversee elections.

The plan was adopted last month by the five permanent members of the U.N. Security Council: the United States, Soviet Union, China, Britain and France. It also calls for disarming the four armies.

"We are very pleased with the document ... and we accept it without reservation," said Khieu Samphan, head of the Communist Khmer Rouge, which rejected the plan in June because each faction did not have an equal number of seats on the council.

"If I can summarize it in one word — success," said Edwige Avice, French deputy foreign minister, who led the peace talk effort along with Indonesian Foreign Minister Ali Alatas.

Iraq offering free oil to Third World

TEHRAN, Iran (AP) — In a major step toward ending its decade-long conflict with Saddam Hussein, Iran has agreed to establish diplomatic relations with Iraq, the official Iranian news agency said Monday.

Also Monday, Iraqi President Saddam Hussein offered to supply oil free of charge to Third World countries in what he said was a gesture of solidarity. However, he said the countries would have to supply their own tankers, and his statement appeared to be an attempt to circumvent the U.N. embargo on trade with Iraq.

Saddam addressed his message to Third World governments, but did not specify the countries. He said he was making the offer regardless of the various governments' stands in the Persian Gulf crisis.

"We hereby declare that we are prepared to supply all Third World countries with oil free of charge in accordance with the needs of each country," Saddam said in his latest televised message, read by an announcer.

The Islamic Republic News Agency, monitored in Nicosia, Cyprus, said the agreement between Iran and Iraq was reached in a meeting between Iranian Foreign Minister Ali Akbar Velayati and his Iraqi counterpart, Tariq Aziz, who ended a 24-hour visit to Iran today.

Confiscation

Only one or two kegs were confiscated at East Merry Mania last spring, according to Votava. Thirty-two kegs were taken by Bowling Green police last weekend.

City and University police combined for 61 arrests during the East Merry-Frazee weekend last spring. City police alone arrested 104 last weekend, with University police adding a handful Friday and Saturday weekend.

Police arrested six for purchasing alcohol for minors last weekend. Such arrests did not take place during last spring's East Merry-Frazee weekend.

Police and the community are not against students having parties — but they have to be given in a responsible manner, according to Votava. If alcohol is served, it must be served to students of legal age, he said.

Police officials have been blamed for ignoring underage drinking by some members of the community, Davidson said — but from now on it will be different.

"We are going to consistently enforce the underage drinking and open container city ordinances," he said.

Maurer may have been one of the community members Davidson had in mind.

After the East Merry-Frazee bashes last semester, he wrote a letter to University President Paul Olscamp and Bowling Green

Diplomats described Aziz' visit as an attempt by Baghdad to get help beating international trade sanctions imposed on Iraq after it invaded Kuwait Aug. 2.

There were unconfirmed reports that shipments of rice and flour already were being sent to Iraq via Iran. Such shipments would end the economic isolation Iraq has suffered under the U.N.-ordered trade embargo.

Iran's leaders have said they will honor the embargo, although they object to the U.S. military buildup in Saudi Arabia.

Also today, the Syrian government said it was sending more troops to Saudi Arabia at the request of the desert kingdom.

Diplomatic sources estimate that Syria has already sent 4-5,000 elite combat troops to the kingdom, and they expected this figure to almost double in the near future.

The official Iraqi News Agency (INA) questioned President Bush's motives in meeting Sunday with Soviet President Mikhail Gorbachev in Helsinki, Finland. After seven hours of talks, the two leaders stood firm in demanding an immediate and unconditional Iraqi withdrawal from Kuwait, and did not rule out the use of force if a peaceful solution is not found.

Mayor Edwin Miller requesting tougher enforcement of these type of block parties by city and University police.

"I don't think the residents realize the potential liabilities," Maurer said, adding that he "wholeheartedly supported" the police crackdown at his apartments this weekend.

When students crowd the balconies, a fire hazard exists, along with the possibility that students could fall off and be hurt or killed, Maurer said.

"If they think about it, it's not worth it," Maurer said. "So far, we've been lucky, but (an incident) is going to happen. It's just a matter of when."

If students were injured or killed, he, as landlord, would be liable in the event of a lawsuit, Maurer said.

Complex parties are specifically forbidden in the list of rules East Merry residents are given at the beginning of each rental term, Maurer said, although he admitted he had been more easy-going about such rules in the past.

Kegs were taken from students' apartments because of the possibility of contributing to minors, Davidson said.

"All the people in the (apartment) could be 21 but they could be serving people that are under 21," he said.

word, I'm hauling your ass to jail."

Hoppert said she does not know why she received the citation and she was not aware of any law that states a person cannot smoke cigarettes outside on a porch.

Davidson said the city government's policy used to be a policy of containment — where officials allowed the parties to go on. He questions the city's new policy and the authority behind the policy.

He said he believes Constitutional freedoms were violated and he will call the city attorney to ask about the legality of the situations.

Greg Bakies, director of Student Legal Services, said he has been flooded with calls concerning the numerous arrests.

"We are researching various questionable police actions to determine whether Constitutional violations occurred," Bakies said.

Bakies said generally consent is needed to enter an apartment, or a warrant may be presented.

While he didn't receive a ticket, Scott Vanek, 915 Thurston Ave., Apt. 13, said police approached his door on Saturday night and asked if there was a party going on and if there was a keg of beer inside.

Poll finds half of Big Apple nuts

NEW YORK (AP) — Pollsters asked New Yorkers if they agreed with this statement: "To live in New York, people need to be a little crazy." More than half gave the only sane response — yes.

In the poll commissioned by Time magazine, 52 percent adjusted their straitjackets and agreed that life here is indeed easier for the slightly daft.

There is no evidence that most residents of Phoenix or Atlanta have ever claimed that insanity enhances life in their communities. Do New Yorkers really see themselves as teeth-grinding, neck-bulging, fist-pounding loonies? Is the nation's largest city also its craziest?

Dr. Elliot Wineburg, a professor of clinical psychology at Mount Sinai Hospital and an expert on urban stress, was not convinced.

"People like to go along with legends. They're admitting to a proud sort of craziness," he said. "It's a kind of boot camp attitude toward life in the city."

Wineburg said many New Yorkers lay claim not to psychosis, but to the fanatic's mania: for opera, stocks, sculpture or basketball, all of which the city has in unrivaled abundance.

Hokies' defense stymies Falcons

Virginia Tech tailback Tony Kennedy tries to break through the Falcons' Joe Bair and Mark Ross during the Tech's 21-7 victory over BG. Hokie backs collected 262 yards on the ground, including 165 by Kennedy's running mate Vaughn Hebronn.

BG rushing attack shut down by Tech

BLACKSBURG, Va. — One big play can often turn defeat into victory.

Saturday night, it was a series of big plays on offense and defense that led Virginia Tech to a 21-7 victory over Bowling Green at Lane Stadium in front of 32,187.

The non-conference game drops the Falcons' record to 1-1, while the Hokies improve to 1-1 following a loss to Maryland last week.

Defense was definitely the strength for both teams, as offenses penetrated the opponent's 20-yard line just four times.

"I thought our defense was magnificent the second half," BG head coach Moe Ankney said. "The first half we gave up big plays, but the defense played well in the second half and kept us in the game."

It was not on defense, but offense where the Falcons struggled.

The Falcons first setback came Friday, when the starting backfield of LeRoy Smith and Jim Howell did not make the trip because of injuries.

Behind tailbacks George Johnson, Zeb Jackson and fullback Chris Beier, the Falcons managed only 99 yards rushing compared to 244 against Cincinnati.

"Tech's defense was a lot quicker off the ball than Cincinnati," Jackson said. "We were pretty pleased with the way we ran the ball."

"I thought they did a good job," VT head coach Frank Beamer said. "But for the most part we did very well against them."

The lack of a rushing game came back to haunt the Falcons late in the third quarter when the Hokies took control of the trenches.

Facing a fourth down and inches at the Hokies' 29 with less than five minutes remaining in the third quarter, Ankney decided to gamble and go for the first down.

Lining up in the wishbone formation, BG quarterback Erik White handed off to the third back through, Zeb Jackson, who was met a yard deep in the backfield and thrown for a loss by a penetrating VT front line.

"That was our downfall," Ankney said. "The one thing we really did poorly - third and short, fourth and short. We couldn't make it. Give them credit, but it was bad short-yardage offense by us. We have to improve that."

While neither team could brag about third-down conversions - BG four of 16 and VT six of 17 - the Hokies could boast about their only fourth-down conversion.

BG earns respect for itself, MAC

by Matt Schroder
sports editor

BLACKSBURG, Va. — A clip from a local Virginia newspaper Saturday morning made an interesting reference to the caliber of football teams in the Mid-American Conference.

The opinion appeared in a preview story before Virginia Tech hosted Bowling Green under the lights on Saturday night.

It went something like this: The MAC is as close to Division I-AA as a I-A league can get.

Commentary

It's been 28 years since Virginia Tech has played a MAC team. And while Toledo, Miami, BG and their league mates cannot blast Ohio State or Michigan off the field, the Hokies found out Saturday no one is going to lay down for you just because you play in a bigger stadium with bigger players.

Believe it or not, Bowling Green's 21-7 loss to Virginia Tech proved just that.

Maybe the author was basing his or her judgement on the results of the last match-up between the Hokies and a MAC team — the final score was Tech 53, Ohio U. 21. But he or she would have to boast a remarkable memory to recall November of 1972 — the month and year of that game.

The Falcons gave the Hokies a run for their money despite making the trip without top tailback LeRoy Smith and fullbacks Jim Howell and Deon Allen.

Don't forget, this is a Virginia Tech team which boasted the fourth-best defense in the country last season, and an offense with gamebreaking speed.

Soccer overcomes deficit to OSU

Williams, Boyle lead comeback

by Chris Miller
staff writer

The Falcon soccer team has just about seen it all after only three games of the season.

All, that is, except a loss. Sophomore Bob Boyle's third goal of the season with 10 minutes left to play lifted BG to a 2-1 come-from-behind win over Ohio State Saturday at Mickey Cochran Field.

The victory pushed the Falcons to 3-0 on the year, while OSU dropped to 3-1.

So far, BG has been tested in nearly every conceivable way, but each has led to the same result.

In BG's season-opening win against Syracuse, it was a slow, methodical game plan aimed at defusing BG's high-scoring front line. The result? A 2-0 BG win.

Then came Siena, who tried an offside's trap to neutralize the Falcon offense. BG won 5-0.

OSU's method nearly worked.

Three Buckeyes packed eight players in the defensive third of the field while relying on a fast-break style offense to take advantage of their forwards' speed.

Statistically, it was a failure in the first half as BG outshot the Buckeyes 9-1. On the scoreboard, though, it was still 0-0.

"We really carried play and took it to them, but we were just missing on our shots," BG head coach Gary Palmisano said. "Then we came out flat the first few minutes of the second half and it cost us."

More specifically, it cost BG a goal. The first one goalie Greg Murphy had allowed in over 221 minutes this season and it put BG behind 1-0.

The Falcons, however, didn't get flustered. Instead, they just retaliated.

Junior halfback Chris Iantoni started the comeback when he lofted a corner kick to sophomore Chris Williams. Williams outdued OSU goalie Chad Planner for the header to knot the score at the 57:20 mark.

"Our kids didn't panic, that was the key," Palmisano said. "Once we got the neutralizer, it really brought the crowd to life."

And it also set up Boyle. The 6-1 forward took Williams' header on a corner kick from Brian Ferguson and deposited it in the net to

Volleyball remains undefeated, keeps perfect season alive

by Jamie Joss
sports writer

When it comes to Falcon volleyball the person most likely to be associated with engineering a 10-game winning streak would be Linda Popovich.

But this year, it is actually the play of Falcons sophomore setter Carey Amos and junior hitters Tammy Schiller, Lisa Mika, and Holli Costein.

BG extended its unbeaten streak to 10 games after being crowned tournament champions in the Southern Illinois Saluki tournament at Carbondale, Illinois.

The Falcons posted a perfect 4-0 record, with wins over Alabama, Southern Illinois, Portland, and Northwestern.

The championship marked the second-straight title for the Falcons in as many weekends.

Schiller was named tournament Most Valuable Player for the second-straight weekend. In addition, Schiller was named player of the week by the Mid-American Conference.

"Tammy played very well, but the whole team played very well,"

Cross country settles for spilt

Men and women run past Marshall, but fall to Ohio U.

by Brian Dugger
sports writer

The Falcons may have lost a battle Saturday, but they haven't lost the war.

The Bowling Green men's team lost to Mid-American Conference rival Ohio University 21-34, but the loss was just a mere inconvenience according to Falcon Keith Madaras.

"We're not discouraged," Madaras said. "We're just trying to improve and work towards the end of the year, and the MAC meet."

Although BG lost to OU, the Falcons were able to defeat the race's other participant, Marshall University, and the Falcons did have a number of team members turn in fine performances.

Madaras finished second for the second week in a row. This week he finished with a time of 26:08, 18 seconds behind the eventual race winner, Marshall's Duane Miller.

Sink

Falcon's coach Sid Sink was not discouraged by his team's performance, but said they need to improve.

"We're just not in good shape, yet," Sink said. "Eddie Nicholson, Dane Schubert, and Shawn Howard, our freshmen, ran well, but they weren't able to keep up with the OU pack. If we're to defeat Kent State next week, we need to run a lot better."

Sink also said that he was looking for more leadership from his seniors.

"John Wodarski and Jon Monheim need to keep up with the freshmen, and start running better overall," he said.

OU coach Mo Banton, on the other hand, had nothing but praise for his team.

"We knew we had to run a team race to win, and that's exactly what we did," he said. "The guys ran together as a group, and they kept helping each other throughout the race."

The difference in the race was the Bobcats' ability to run as a group, taking the third through the sixth spots, which proved to be the difference.

The BG women fared as well as the men when they defeated Marshall, but lost to the Bobcats.

However, unlike the men, the women came close to defeating the Bobcats, which is quite an accomplishment considering the OU women have won the MAC the last three years.

"Several good things happened in this meet," coach Steve Price said. "We ran against OU on the same course last year. And of the nine people who ran in both meets, five had better times this year."

The Bobcat's top runner, Chris Nichols, came away as the overall winner in the race. "I always liked this course," she said. "It's challenging, but it's not too tough."

Tracy Gaerke was the Falcons top finisher, which is quite an accomplishment considering she missed all of last year, and this was only her fourth cross country meet in her entire life. She placed in the third spot, behind two OU runners.

Price was pleased with his team's overall performance.

"Cheri Triner (fourth) and Jill Strawser (seventh) did quite well," he said. "Two of our top runners, Andrea Rombes and Carolyn Goins, had respiratory affections and couldn't even run, so we might have been able to win if they had run."

Banton knows how injuries hurt a team, as four of his top runners did not make the trip because of injuries.

"I'm very pleased when you consider the injuries we have. We had three people sprain their ankles last week alone," he said. "Our freshman did a great job, and Chris Nichols ran her usual tough race."

Saturday, the men and women both attempt to improve, and possibly pick up victories, when they travel to Kent State to run against the Golden Flashes.

Women's golf leaves Illinois dissatisfied

by Kevin Cummings
sports writer

Oh what a difference one week can make.

Last weekend the Bowling Green women's golf team looked so impressive at the Lady Irish Invitational, finishing fifth in a 24 team field, only six strokes behind champion Northern Illinois.

This weekend at the Wolverine Invitational, the Falcons improved with a fourth-place finish, only this time there was only a field of six teams, and the Falcons (1024) were 29 strokes off the pace of tourney champion Michigan.

The Wolverines, who shot a three round total of 995, finished 27 strokes ahead of BG. Runner-up Wisconsin shot a 997 total, and edging out the Falcons by two strokes was third-place Notre Dame.

To make the fourth-place finish even more disappointing, BG had just beaten both Michigan and Notre Dame the week before; Michigan for the first time in two years. University of Michigan star Becky Hayes won individual honors shooting a three round total of 239, on a very hilly course filled with trees and bunkers. Jenny Girdlestone was the top finisher for BG, shooting a 248 which was good enough for a fourth-place finish.

Ann Alexander tied for seventh with a 253 and Heidi Wright placed ninth overall with a 254.

Rounding out the scoring for BG was Sue Balmer hitting a 269, Amy Edenfield a 290, and Angela Ford a 291.

"I was very pleased to see Jenny come around like she did this weekend, and I couldn't help but be pleased with Angela's last round," Nye said.

Course structure also played a huge role in the linksters score and finish.

"This course was extremely difficult, and will be the most difficult one we play on this year," Nye added.

Schroder

Tech's three touchdowns came on plays of 32, 50 and 27 yards. Other than that, the Hokies were forced to punt eight times and were intercepted twice.

Three defensive lapses by the BG defense in the course of a four quarter game is hardly an inexcusable performance. In fact, on four separate possessions, the Falcons held the Hokie offense to under five yards.

Moreover, Bowling Green had repeated chances in the second half to march in for a possible go-ahead score, but fell short.

True, a loss by any other name is still a loss. True, the Falcons did not play well enough to win. But it's also true BG can take far more positives with them from Virginia Tech than negatives — not the least of which is a world's worth of pride in themselves and in the Mid-American Conference.

Chris Shale's punting was brilliant. The MAC's leading punter the last two years, Shale set a new school record with 472 total yards on Saturday and kept the Hokies in poor field position most of the day.

But what the Falcons gained the most of this weekend was experience. Running backs Zeb Jackson, George Johnson and Chris Beier earned valuable playing time against a prime-time defense. Nothing could better prepare them for the upcoming conference tests.

The offensive line protected young quarterback Erik White with their lives — allowing just one sack in 33 pass attempts.

Speaking of White, he passed for a career-high 156 yards and has still not thrown an interception in 54 total attempts this season.

Split end Mark Szlachcic emerged as a receiving threat — catching eight balls for 100 yards, including a 31 yard TD bomb down the right sideline.

The defense, while allowing 398 net yards, toughened up on third down where it held the Hokies to a mere six conversions out of 17. Interceptions by Duane Crenshaw and Dave Bielinski provided more defensive highlights.

All things considered, the Falcons are in good shape at this point in the season. They've beaten the team they were expected to beat and remained most competitive against a squad loaded with talent, size and speed.

With next week off, injuries to Smith and Howell will have time to heal before BG travels to Central Michigan and Ball State on Sept. 22 and 29.

By gaining a split at worst with the Chippewas and Cardinals, the Falcons could be looking at a 2-2 overall record, 1-1 in the MAC, with four home games down the stretch.

After two games and two long road trips, one thing is sure on the 1990 Falcon football team: where it lacks in experience, it makes up for in heart, soul, and guts.

After Saturday's game, you would get no argument from the Hokies.

BG coach Denise Van De Walle.

In fifteen games, she tallied a hitting percentage of .440 (84 kills-14 errors-159 total attempts), 80 digs, five block solos, and 18 block assists.

Mika also earned honors by being selected to the All-Tournament team.

She tallied a .385 hitting percentage in fifteen games (67 kills-12 errors-143 total attempts), 77 digs, seven aces, five block solos, and 16 block assists.

Amos improved her play, totalling 169 assists in fifteen games for an 11.26 per game average, 12 service aces, 38 digs, three block solos, and 11 block assists in fifteen games.

"Carey did a nice job throughout the matches, and she played her best match against Northwestern," Van De Walle said.

Costein played well in her fourteen games tallying a .290 hitting percentage (43 kills-12 errors-107 attempts), 78 digs, nine aces, three block solos, four block assists.

BG played Alabama to open the tourney and set them down in three games (16-14, 15-12, 15-9).

The Falcons played great volleyball against the Crimson Tide. They had a team hitting percentage of .382 and played a defensively sound game with 102 digs.

BG followed the victory over Alabama with an even more precisely played match defeating tournament host Southern Illinois (15-10, 15-5, 15-10).

The Falcons had an overwhelming .426 team hitting percentage and made only nine attack errors in 68 total attempts.

"We played a very good match against them and there wasn't a whole lot they could do to stop us," Van De Walle said.

Schiller provided much of the power leading the Falcons with 25 kills.

BG entered it's toughest match of the weekend against Portland State University and lost the first two games 14-16, 13-15. Down 2-0, the Falcons won the next three games to post an impressive come from behind win (15-8, 15-11, 15-8).

"I think we were a better team than they were, but I don't think that we were playing as good as we could," Van De Walle said.

"That's an incredible sign for such a young team, there isn't too many times you can lose the first two games and win the next three and I don't care who you are."

Not only was the match tough, but it marked some stellar performances from the Falcon players.

BG's Mika showed her power as she pounded down 26 kills and had a .393 hitting percentage.

Amos recorded her highest match assist total of 56 for an 11.2 per game average.

Schiller added 21 kills and Costein chipped in with 17.

The Falcons received great defensive play from Costein who had 35 digs and Amy Morgan who added 28.

"Holly played extremely well for the whole tournament," Van De Walle said, "She played very good at the net, and she played really well in the back row and at times her defense kept us in the game."

Going into the championship match both the Falcons and Northwestern had 3-0 records, but BG outlasted the Wildcats in four games (10-15, 15-6, 15-13, 15-5).

The four-game match with NU was highlighted by Schiller's 30 kills game which almost eclipsed the current record of 35 held by former Falcon Jo Lynn Williams in a five-game match.

Mika and Costein added 19 and 14 kills, respectively, and Amos had 50 assists for a 12.5 per game average.

Freshman Lori Tate provided the Falcons with some valuable defensive play. She played three games, posting 4 block assists, and 7 digs.

"Lori Tate did an excellent job. I put her in because I needed a very quick player on defense," Van De Walle said, "It was a big step up for Lori and she proved she can play at a real high level as a freshman."

Although the Falcons seem to have perfected their game, they still have a few aspects that need fine tuning before they head into Mid-American Conference play.

"Our serving was OK, but I think we are still making errors at critical times and that's what is disappointing," Van De Walle said.

The Falcons will have their first home match against Michigan State this Wednesday at 7:00 p.m. at Anderson Arena (admission is free).

The match will be "Wear your orange night and join the block party."

This is a revenge match for the Falcons who were defeated last year in a tough match at East Lansing, Mich.

Hokies

Tech's most important drive of the night started when VT's junior Marcus Mickel took a Chris Shale 43-yard punt down the right sideline 38 yards to the Falcon 38. It was Mickel's first game returning punts.

Trailing by only seven points, the Falcons defense stiffened and forced a fourth down and one.

Like his opposing coach, VT's Beamer decided to go for the first down. Unlike the Falcons, his Hokies were successful.

VT's backup quarterback Rodd Wooten, who replaced starter Will Furrer, put his head down and drove behind his center to pick up the needed yardage.

On the next play, Wooten made the conversion and hurt the Falcons even more when he rolled out and hit senior Nick Cullen for a 27-yard touchdown.

"In the second half, Furrer was hurting a little bit," Beamer said. "By then, Rodd had a hot hand and we decided to stay with him."

One player who supplied the heat all night for the Hokies was sophomore tailback Vaughn Hebron. Hebron (26 carries for 165 yards) blistered the Falcons' defense for two long touchdown runs of 32 and 50 yards in the second quarter.

"The defense got tired in the second quarter and their tailback looked like a bullet," Ankney said. "He was running like a bullet and we were missing tackles."

After Hebron scored his first touchdown of the second quarter, the Falcons answered the Hokies' score with their only touchdown of the night thanks to a big run and a clutch reception.

On the second play of the drive, Jackson broke through a hole behind center and rambled left for 34 yards to the Tech 46 yard line.

After picking up two more first downs and moving to the 26-yard line, it looked as if the drive was going to fizzle out when BG was flagged for illegal procedure on third down and 13.

But on the next play, sophomore split end Mark Szlachcic, beat safety Damien Russell down the right sideline and hauled in a 31-yard strike from White.

Szlachcic, who solidified himself as the Falcons biggest receiving threat, caught eight passes for 100 yards.

"I thought he was outstanding," Ankney said. "He made some great catches and I was very pleased with his performance."

The same can be said for the teams' performance.

Kent State reschedules rugby game

by Kevin Cummings
sports writer

The Bowling Green rugby team's reputation arrived in Kent State, days before the Falcons were scheduled to, causing cancellation of the match, and rescheduling for November 3.

According to head coach Roger Mazzarella the Golden Flashes cancelled their game against BG because they were not ready to play the Falcon ruggers.

"I received a call late Thursday night telling me that Kent wasn't ready to play a team of our calibre," Mazzarella said.

The cancellation could turn out to be a blessing in disguise for the brown and orange, as they came out of their first weekends action 'banged up'.

"We had alot of players with bumps and bruises, and we would of only been playing at 90 percent," Mazzarella said.

Sandusky meanwhile, may have been better off following Kent's lead as the Falcons trounced the lake-side ruggers 20-4 to improve their record to 3-0-1.

Leading the Falcon charge was Todd Meyer, who tallied two tries and two conversion kicks.

BG captain R.T. Naples said flanker Tom Clark and eight-man Matt Paskiet also had impressive games.

put BG up for good at 2-1. Boyle has now scored in every game this year and leads the team with seven points.

"We really got two nice goals off of corner kicks," Palmisano said. "We couldn't have asked for two prettier goals."

And an even prettier win.

"We made the right adjustments to their style of play and the kids remained composed, even when we were down," Palmisano said. "We felt we needed to be more patient prior to attacking their goal and it eventually paid dividends."

The tough win should help the Falcons, according to Palmisano. "So far, we've played three different games, with each game undertaking a different personality," he said. "We adjusted well to (each style.) This game helped the players really sort things out on the field by themselves."

"Hopefully, if we see this situation down the road, (a game) like this will help us."

There isn't much time for celebration, though. BG travels to Dayton tonight to take on the Flyers.

The Falcons stopped Dayton 3-0 last year and hold a 17-5-1 advantage overall. This year, the Flyers are 2-1 after dropping their last game to Notre Dame 5-1 in overtime.

"We haven't really heard anything about them, but I do know they come out to play tough soccer," Palmisano said. "Last year's win was a lot closer than the score indicated."

One thing that will change from past BG-UD games in Dayton is that the game will not take place on Welcome Stadium's artificial turf. The 7 p.m. match is slated for an intramural field on UD's campus.

Buckeyes' Smith impresses Cooper

COLUMBUS (AP) — Ohio State coach John Cooper went into Saturday's 17-10 victory over Texas Tech with a third-string tailback named Robert Smith. Cooper ended the game behind the wheel of a sports car.

"Your good backs, and I put Robert in that class, have a passing gear. It looks like they're going full speed and — boom! — they step on the accelerator and they've got a passing gear," Cooper said Monday at his weekly news conference.

Cooper didn't see much of Smith — all of his 17 carries came in the second half — but he liked what he saw.

Smith ran for 86 yards, including a 2-yard touchdown run, and also had two receptions for 41 yards and two kickoff returns for 61 yards.

But Cooper wasn't about to fall into the trap of naming Smith the second coming of a legend.

Asked if Smith's running style was reminiscent of former Southern Cal superstar O.J. Simpson, Cooper said, "I don't know if he reminds me of O.J. right now. He's only played half of one game."

But even Cooper couldn't dispute the effect that Smith's presence had on the otherwise moribund Ohio State offense. The Buckeyes had just 43 rushing yards in the first half; they had 139 in the second half with Smith in the lineup.

Moreover, every time Smith was in the game, the 88,707 in attendance seemed to snap to attention.

"I don't know if I've ever had anybody come in off the bench like that and excite the crowd like he did," said Cooper, a head coach for the last 14 years. "(Split end) Bobby Olive probably made the best run of the day when he caught a quick pass and turned it into a 38-yard gain. But for some reason, the fans didn't get excited about that the way they did when Robert came in and made some good runs."

Cooper said that Smith and Raymont Harris, the starter against Tech, were bracketed as the starting tailbacks for Saturday's game at Boston College.

Cooper praised the performances of linebacker Steve Tovar and flanker Jeff Graham, who returned a punt 50 yards in the fourth quarter for the winning touchdown.

MAC names players of the week

TOLEDO (AP) — Central Michigan quarterback Jeff Bender and Toledo free safety David Walkosky have been selected as the Mid-American Conference players of the week.

Bender, a junior from Newberry, Mich., completed 14 of 23 passes for 178 yards and a two touchdowns and rushed six times for a net gain of 32 yards as Central Michigan routed Cincinnati, 34-0. Bender threw a pair of 17-yard touchdown passes in the second quarter as CMU broke a scoreless tie against the Bearcats.

Walkosky, a senior from Steubenville, Ohio made eight tackles, intercepted a pass and broke up three other passes as Toledo opened its season with a 20-14 conference victory at Miami of Ohio. Seven of his tackles were unassisted, one was for a 9-yard loss and another was a touchdown-saving stop at the 1-yard line.

Carson criticizes team's play

by Chuck Melvin
Associate Press

CLEVELAND (AP) — The Cleveland Browns won't be scoring many points until they learn to make better use of first down, Coach Bud Carson said Monday.

The Browns averaged fewer than 2 yards per play on first down in Sunday's 13-3 win over the Pittsburgh Steelers. Seven of their 25 first-down plays resulted in losses of yardage.

"Our big problem was on first down, just like it was last year," Carson said. "We haven't found a way to possess it with high-percentage passes."

Even on their one sustained drive, a 19-play, 67-yard march that set up one of Jerry Kauric's two field goals, the Browns needed four third-down passes to hold onto the ball.

"We've got to bring our passing game along, particularly our first-down passing," Carson said.

"We did move the football on that one long drive in the third and fourth quarter and possessed the football when our defense needed a rest."

The prospects for improvement dimmed, however, when fullback Kevin Mack broke the ring finger on his left hand at the end of a 16-yard run late in the first half. Mack said he didn't know exactly how the injury occurred, but Carson said it appeared in game films that he broke it as he used his left arm to try to ward off a defender.

Team Dr. John Bergfeld will try to rig a cast or tape the hand to enable Mack to play Sunday against the New York Jets, but Carson said it's doubtful Mack will be available. The injury is the latest in a string of problems that have plagued Mack, including his drug conviction and knee injury that kept him off the team most of last season.

"We need him," Carson said. "We don't look right now like we have a guy in his class as a power back. Kevin Mack is an all-pro (caliber) back. But he's never going to be all-pro if he keeps getting hurt."

If Mack cannot play, Derrick Gainer will probably replace him in the starting lineup, Carson said.

Cavs' ineptness proves costly

by Chuck Melvin
Associated Press sports writer

STRONGSVILLE, O. (AP) — The Cleveland Cavaliers gambled and lost when they failed to sign restricted free agent John Williams to a long-term contract last winter, Williams' agent said Monday.

The Cavaliers on Friday retained Williams by matching the Miami Heat's seven-year, $26.5 million offer sheet for the 6-foot-11 forward. The contract is front-loaded so that Williams will get $5 million in salary and bonuses this year, making him the NBA's highest-paid player in 1990-91.

Cleveland could have kept Williams for far less, probably less than half the price, if it had reached a deal with him early last season, Williams and his agent, Mark Bartelstein, indicated at a news conference Monday.

"We constantly tried to get something worked out, even before we went and talked to other teams," Bartelstein said. "We called them before the free-agent market opened up and said, 'Listen, we're thinking about getting an offer sheet, and if we do get an offer sheet, it's going to be gigantic.'"

Cleveland reportedly could have signed Williams to a five-year, $10 million contract if it had acted before last January. Two months later, when the Cavaliers said they would agree to those terms, Williams and Bartelstein turned them down.

"When we made the proposal to the Cavaliers, it was clear we wanted a decision on it immediately," Bartelstein said. "We were dealing with the risk of injury and we were getting closer to free agency. So when they came back later and basically said we'll match your proposal from a couple months earlier, it didn't make any sense at that point. Another 20-some odd games had gone by."

The Cavaliers apparently hoped that Williams, who averaged 16.8 points and 8.1 rebounds

last year, would not attract any offer sheets. Williams lost an arbitration battle in June that would have made him an unrestricted free agent.

OSU's Clark penalized for scuffle

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Ohio State cornerback Vinnie Clark was fined $50 Monday and given a 30-day suspended sentence for his involvement in a scuffle with police after a car crash involving teammate Carlos Snow.

Clark had pleaded guilty to the charges of disorderly conduct and obstructing official business.

Judge Alfred Glasco of Franklin County Municipal Court ordered Clark to avoid conviction for the next year or he would have to serve the jail term.

Clark and Snow were suspended from the team June 21 after Snow was charged with drunken driving after a car that Snow was driving ran off the road and struck a fuel pump and a wall at a service station lot that day. Clark, a senior, later was reinstated to the team.

Clark was not in the car with Snow. While Snow was sitting in a police car, Clark drove up in another car and a scuffle ensued. It took three officers to subdue Clark.

The charges against Snow are pending.

Bengal's defense surprises

CINCINNATI (AP) — The Cincinnati Bengals' defense was their main concern going into their season opener against the New York Jets. So naturally, it turned in a championship-caliber performance.

The defense kept New York out of the end zone on a pivotal first-and-goal series from the 1-yard line in the fourth quarter, later sacked Ken O'Brien for a safety, and held the Jets on two final possessions to fashion a 25-20 victory Sunday.

A team that had to rely on offense to win last year got a chance to celebrate its defense for a change.

"When our so-called high-powered offense is sputtering, that's good news," quarterback Boomer Esiason said. "That's great news."

There hadn't been much good news about the defense in preseason. The secondary was a disaster without cornerback Eric Thomas, out for the season with a knee injury, and cornerback Lewis Billups, who didn't end a holdout until last week.

It gave up some big plays again Sunday — a 46-yard touchdown pass from O'Brien to Al Toon, who ran right by Billups, and a 9-yarder from O'Brien to Toon in the third quarter.

But the goal-line stand early in the fourth quarter, which forced the Jets to settle for a field goal and a 20-10 lead, seemed to finally incite the Bengals. They moved quickly down to score on Esiason's second touchdown pass of the game, then got two points and the ball when David Fulcher sacked O'Brien in the end zone on a safety blitz.

Jim Breech kicked the go-ahead field goal, the Jets failed to make a first down on four plays, and Breech kicked another field goal for a 25-20 lead. Fulcher then intercepted O'Brien's desperation pass in the end zone to clinch it.

"They have some tenacious players on defense," said Jets coach Bruce Coslet, formerly the Bengals' offensive coordinator. "A lot of people malign their defense, but they're pretty good, they really are."

The defensive performance reminded many Bengals of the 1988 opener, when the defense saved a 21-14 victory over Phoenix at Riverfront Stadium with two goal-line stands. The Bengals went on to the Super Bowl that year.

"This is the way 1988 started," Coach Sam Wyche said.

"It's a nice start — like we beat the Cardinals in 1988," Esiason said. "You start out on top, and you don't ever want to relinquish that."

"It's reminiscent of 1988. This game in many ways was reminiscent of the start of that year."

The Bengals needed the save by their defense because their offense was erratic.

Esiason completed just 6 of 15 passes in the first half for 70 yards with one interception. Only one receiver caught a pass, as Esiason repeatedly overthrew open targets.

"We felt we were open. We were," receiver Tim McGee said. "We just didn't get the ball."

"We were inches away from exploding out there," Wyche said. "The ball got away from Boomer four or five times in the first half when guys were wide open."

Esiason blamed himself.

"We had guys open in the first half that if I'd hit them, we were going to get first down," he said.

Instead, they managed just 130 total yards, punted four times and had one pass intercepted.

The offense came alive in the second half behind Esiason, who completed 11 of 15 passes. Still, the Bengals needed the defense to get it done.

Indians steal one; Chicago takes one

by Chuck Melvin
Associated Press writer

CLEVELAND (AP) — Eric King got his first win since June 27 and Bobby Thigpen extended his major-league record to 49 saves as the Chicago White Sox ended a four-game losing streak and beat the Cleveland Indians 6-2 for a split of Monday's two-night Monday.

Cleveland won the opener 3-2 when pinch-hitter Carlos Baerga drew a bases-loaded walk from reliever Barry Jones with one out in the ninth inning. Doug Jones (5-5) got the victory, striking out two batters with a runner at third in the top of the ninth.

Chicago's Carlton Fisk had a home run in each game, giving him 17 for the season.

In the nightcap, King (9-4) ended a streak of bad luck that included a month on the disabled list with shoulder problems. The right-hander gave up two runs and five hits in six-plus innings, walking two and striking out one. Thigpen worked 2-3 innings.

Flying insects swarmed over the field during the second game, occasionally forcing players to cover their faces with their gloves between pitches.

The White Sox scored three runs off Charles Nagy (0-4) in the first inning on an RBI double by Fisk and Carlos Martinez's two-run single. Ron Karkovics made it 4-0 in the fourth with his sixth home run.
